Joan Finney, Governor

June 14, 1991

TO ALL STATE AGENCIES:

Governor Joan Finney declared that July 5, the Friday after Independence Day will be a state employee holiday this year in honor of the Kansas troops who served in Operation Desert Storm.

The Governor said: "This will be a very special Independence Day. Americans have a great deal to celebrate this year -- our troops are home, our families are back together, and we have escaped the specter of war that haunted us just a few short months ago.

"Declaring the fifth a state holiday is a way of honoring those Americans who served their country, and giving our families and communities the opportunity to make this a joyous Independence Day weekend."
